

JAPANESE LINER SUNK AND NO WARNING GIVEN

Yasaka Maru Falls Victim to Submarine Near Port Said, All Passengers Escaping.

ONE AMERICAN ABOARD SHIP

German or Austrian Submarine Said to Have Sent Vessel to Bottom. Feared by Washington That Whole Controversy May Be Reopened.

LONDON, December 23.—The new Japanese liner Yasaka Maru, sunk in the Eastern Mediterranean on Tuesday by a submarine while the steamer was on her way from London to Japan with 129 passengers and a crew of 150 aboard, was sent to the bottom without warning, according to a report received from Port Said, from the owners' office. All of those aboard the steamer, including one American passenger, W. J. Leigh, were saved. The nationality of the submarine was not mentioned. Previous reports referred to the sinking of the ship as done by either an Austrian or a German submarine.

The Yasaka Maru was sunk on Tuesday afternoon. A French gunboat picked up the passengers and crew at midnight and landed them at Port Said on Wednesday morning. The company provided hotel accommodations for them and is arranging to forward them to their destinations. On the passenger list were fifty-one men, fifty-four women and fifteen children, most of whom were British subjects. The agents in their report say further: "The passengers express great admiration for the skill of the captain and officers and for the discipline of the crew. Perfect order was maintained during the embarkation, which was carried out with the greatest promptitude."

TOKYO GREATLY EXCITED BY SINKING OF STEAMER

TOKYO, December 23.—News of the sinking of the Yasaka Maru reached Tokyo today, and caused great excitement. The advice received here says the steamship was sunk by a submarine near Port Said.

MAY MEAN REOPENING OF WHOLE CONTROVERSY

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, December 23.—Following the receipt today of advice that the Japanese liner Yasaka Maru, with an American citizen aboard, was sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean, the State Department instituted prompt inquiries to learn the facts from official sources. A report is awaited from Ambassador Page at London before official action is taken by this government.

The State Department will not act until it has received official reports showing the nationality of the attacking submarine and showing whether the Japanese liner was torpedoed without warning, as charged by agents of the line, or was attacked while trying to escape.

If the vessel was torpedoed without warning by a submarine, flying the German flag, as reported in some press dispatches, officials admitted that the submarine controversy with Germany will be reopened.

Definite pledges were made by Ambassador von Bernstorff that no more liners would be torpedoed without warning. In the light of these pledges officials indicated that Germany would be expected to make prompt disclosure if it is shown that the submarine commander gave no warning. The fact that no lives were lost, however, encouraged officials to believe that the new submarine case would not become a grave issue.

VESSEL REMAINS AFOAT HOUR AFTER ATTACK

Another angle of the situation arising from the sinking of the Japanese liner that came in for discussion was that the vessel remained afloat one hour after being torpedoed, permitting time for the rescue of passengers and crew.

One of the arguments advanced by the Austro-Hungarian government in its defense of the Austria sinking was that the vessel was not torpedoed until after it had been stationary for fifty minutes. Plenty of time was given for the escape of passengers and crew, Austria argued, but the loss of life was due to the panic that resulted on the Ancon.

If reports are confirmed that all on board the Yasaka Maru were enabled to escape, when the vessel remained afloat only a few minutes longer than the time given by the Austro-Hungarian government, the official confirmation of the vessel's loss, either from his own government or from the State Department.

Viscount China, the Japanese ambassador, made every effort today to obtain the details of the sinking of the Yasaka Maru. He was closeted with Secretaries of State and Navy, but said he had not been able to obtain official confirmation of the vessel's loss, either from his own government or from the State Department.

"BOBBY" GOOCH AT FRONT

Former University of Virginia Football Star Joins American Ambulance in France.

PARIS, December 23.—Robert Gooch, of Charlottesville, Va., and J. Liles Glenn, of North Carolina, are among the three Rhodes scholars from Oxford University who have taken places of volunteer American ambulance drivers at the front.

In the ambulance work was W. J. McConnell, of North Carolina, who has joined the French aviation corps. He has been decorated with the War Cross.

One hundred American drivers will spend their first Christmas at the front. Cranberry sauce and plum pudding for each, provided by James H. Hyde, was sent today from Paris.

ALLEGED SLAYERS HELD

PITTSBURGH, December 23.—William McClure and Joseph White, arrested in connection with the murder of Mrs. Carolina Flacus Victim, wealthy widow, were committed to jail here today to await the outcome of the coroner's inquest. McClure was arrested here yesterday, after word had been received that White had been taken into custody at Port Royal, S. C., on Tuesday.

According to the police, the aged woman was slain when the men failed in an attempt to extort $50 from her. White, the police claim, admitted striking the blow which killed her.

POLITICIANS BARRED FROM RESERVE BANKS

All Public Office-Holders Are Ineligible for Election as Officers or Directors.

WASHINGTON, December 23.—Public office-holders and members of political party committees are made ineligible for election as officers or directors of Federal reserve banks by a resolution adopted unanimously today by the Federal Reserve Board. The resolution, which was offered by Secretary McAdoo, also informs member banks of the board, such persons henceforward should not act as officers or directors of reserve banks.

The action of the board is understood to have been taken without extended discussion, the resolution being offered during the election of Class C directors of reserve banks, a task that was not completed when the session ended. Later it was said that the action was not aimed particularly at any candidate or at any director or officer now serving. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, it is the opinion of the Federal Reserve Board that persons holding political or public office in the service of the United States, or of any State, Territory, county, district, political subdivision, or municipality thereof, or acting as members of political party committees, cannot consistently, with the spirit and underlying principles of the Federal reserve act, serve as directors or officers of Federal reserve banks;

Resolved, That the Federal Reserve Board hereby expresses to the member banks its opinion that no such persons should hereforward be elected or act as directors or officers of Federal reserve banks; and prescribes as a condition of eligibility that candidates for election shall comply with the terms of this resolution.

"Resolved further, that copies of this resolution be sent to every member bank and Federal reserve bank, and to all directors of Federal reserve banks."

to the various members of the family in doing the best for themselves that can be done under the circumstances. Experience has shown that the conservation of child life and proper education of their energies make for the building of character and personal efficiency in life. We are happy to be able to say that others seeing the opportunities as described in The Times-Dispatch have volunteered to take other such cases and care for them by the year, assuming responsibility for their needs.

Opportunity No. 1 is typical of the many cases the Associated Charities has to deal with during the year, where, through broken health and lack of funds to secure proper care, permanent disability is liable to ensue.

Opportunity No. 4 represents married couples who have lived together in honorable wedlock, who are unwilling to receive institutional care, as it involves separation. We have many noble institutions which care for such individuals singly, but no provision is made for old couples to spend the remaining years of life together, even when the earning capacity is not wholly diminished.

The Associated Charities appreciates the educational value of the Five Opportunities, showing the public the needs that must be met by them in the summer months as well as during the Christmas season.

We assure The Times-Dispatch and all the contributors to these Five Opportunities that the blessing of the recipients shall follow them not only at this holiday season, but all during the year. It is with great pleasure that we again acknowledge the worthy efforts of The Times-Dispatch and the liberality of the donors. Thanking one and all.

Sincerely yours,

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES, James Buchanan, General Secretary.

BELGIANS ARE GRATEFUL FOR THIS COUNTRY'S AID

Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Stricken People, Writes Touching Letter of Thanks.

SUFFERING STILL IS GREAT

Churchman Says That When Time of Reconstruction Comes Belgium Will Keep Its Eyes Turned Toward Its American Benefactors.

LONDON, December 23.—Cardinal Mercier, the primate of Belgium, has addressed the following letter to Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American Committee for Relief in Belgium:

"I understand you have so kindly addressed anew an appeal to the generosity of your countrymen to provide clothing for our so painfully destitute people. I confess I had much preferred to shake hands with my American brothers in token of thankfulness for what they already have done than that we should again stretch to them the open hand to beg.

COMPLETE SPONTANEITY IN COUNTRY'S HELP

"Your country has already done so much for us; it has given us much in food and, above all, in personal cooperation for our economic rehabilitation; it brings us this help with such a moving and complete spontaneity that we have long desired to convey to your people a full expression of gratitude, untarnished by renewed appeals to their generous impulses. But you yourself, dear friend, invoke us to dispense our scruples, and therefore I, knowing better than any one the destitution of our Belgian people, should feel myself traitor to my duty as their pastor if, through an exaggerated feeling of national pride, I should refrain from also pleading for those who are suffering.

"Only yesterday tears arose in my eyes when, crossing the street in Malines, I met a party of strong, honest workers with steaming heads, their eyes fixed on new clogs. These men were habituated to the support of wives and children through their own labor, but had been for fifteen months without work. The last of their savings are exhausted. Their shoes were worn out, and the relief committee had distributed among them some clogs, with the instruction to use the leather rags from the worn-out shoes as linings to keep their feet from dampness.

"You Americans who prize highly the value of labor and so possess the natural impulse of earning comfort and success by your own exertions, will understand the mental suffering of people souls forced to depend on charity. Therefore, you also know how to hide your liberalities under anonymous veils and how to distribute them through hands as delicate as they are discreet. Interpreter of the feelings of the Belgian population, we thank you as much and more for your way of giving than for the gifts themselves. May I add that one of the greatest benefits, for which we shall feel eternally indebted to the American people, will be the fixing on America of the admiring attention of the Belgians. The Belgian people have learned to know you well, to look at you in a beautiful light, to feel to some extent what they would gain in following your footsteps.

WILL KEEP THEIR EYES ON THIS GREAT LAND

"When the hour of reconstruction comes we will invoke them to keep their eyes on your great land of fecundating initiatives; your land of ambition for more comfort, not through covetousness of other peoples' wealth, but through tenacious will to individual endeavor, with a patriotism that ignores civil discord and draws its strength from a collective love for national progress; yes, we will invoke our people to imitate your high virtues, and we are confident that our benefactors will find in this spreading of their own moral influence their real reward.

"Please accept, dear friend, the expression of my high esteem and devoted gratitude.

(Signed) "CARDINAL MERCIER, Archbishop of Malines."

"SOMETHING SERIOUS" IN LOSS OF VESSEL

Mate of Grace Seymour Refuses to Talk Further Until He Sees Owners.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., December 23.—Rescued from the waterlogged, mastless hulk of the schooner Grace Seymour, about 175 miles west of the Irish coast, six weeks after they had sailed from New York for Rouen, France, with a cargo of oil, Captain Pennewell, Mate Wright and the crew of five men arrived here to-night from Lewes, where they were landed to-day from the Greek steamer Liosifogli. Heavy weather was encountered soon after the schooner had started on her voyage, and gale followed gale.

Three weeks after the vessel had left port the rudder seam was found to be leaking badly. Pumps were worked night and day until the supply of gasoline was exhausted, and it was necessary to pump by hand, in order to prevent the flooding of the vessel from the open seams in the hull. Finally, in spite of these efforts, the vessel became waterlogged, and on the morning of December 4 it was necessary to cut away all three masts. Five hours later the schooner appeared in answer to signals of distress, and took aboard Captain Pennewell and his crew.

The Grace Seymour was a three-masted schooner of about 500 tons, and was owned by Howard Compton, of Leesburg, N. J. She had been used for coastwise trade until this voyage, when extensive repairs were made in preparation for the trip to France.

When asked whether anything beyond the heavy weather had contributed to the opening of the vessel's seams, Mate Wright declared that he would not talk until he had seen the owners. "I found something mighty serious," he added, but refused to explain what this remark meant.

DANIELS MAY PUBLISH FULL REPORT OF BOARD

maintained on a policy that it shall be at all times equal to the navies of any two powers, although, tacitly at least, the American navy has been excluded from that calculation in the past.

NAVY OFFICIALS UNWILLING TO DISCUSS BOARD'S POLICY

While navy officials are unwilling to discuss the board's statement of policy in advance of its publication, it is indicated that the possibility that the United States might be called upon to meet enemies in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans simultaneously was considered in reaching a conclusion. The first year's building alone, under the program, it is reported, would equal the entire five-year administration program in cost, approaching $500,000,000.

Secretary Daniels thinks the administration's plan of four capital ships the first year, the two Dreadnoughts and battle cruisers would tax the building capacity of the nation to the limit. This was one of the important factors considered, he said to-night, in arriving at the figures to be presented to Congress. At present only five private yards and one navy-yard are equipped for battleship construction, although it is planned to add another navy-yard to the list this year, and probably three others in the near future.

Millions Depend on Soup Kitchens

Poland Is Starving, and If Help Does Not Come, Thousands Must Die.

NEW YORK, December 23.—More than 1,000,000 of the population of Poland are destitute and entirely dependent upon soup kitchens, where there is issued to each applicant a small loaf of bread and a pint of soup daily, according to William H. Hamilton, of the American Mercy and Relief Committee, who reached New York today on the steamship Rotterdam. Mr. Hamilton added that he had traveled from Alexandria to Warsaw, and in the entire country evacuated by the Russians there was hardly a habitable building standing.

"I was in Warsaw two weeks ago. The temperature was below zero, and I saw every day long lines of old men, women and children, many of them without adequate clothing, standing for hours in the cold wind awaiting their turns at the food-distributing centers. In Warsaw alone it is estimated that 75,000 people are destitute, and unless relief reaches them soon the majority will not be alive when spring comes.

"Money is not needed, for there is no food or clothing to be purchased. I am going to travel my committee to bring every possible pressure to bear to induce the British to relax their blockade sufficiently to allow at least 25,000 pounds of supplies to go into Poland each month. I have assurances that the Germans will do what they can to assist in its distribution."

NEW YORK, December 23.—Application of heirs-at-law of Mrs. Frank Leslie's husband to have set aside the deed admitting her will to probate in order to institute a contest, was decided in an opinion handed down by Surrogate Fowler. Under Mrs. Leslie's will nearly $2,000,000 was left to the woman suffrage movement. The surrogate finds the applicants, who are the next of kin nor heirs-at-law of Mrs. Leslie, have no ground whatever for seeking a share of the estate. In his decree Surrogate Fowler stamps as baseless allegations of the applicants that Mrs. Leslie was the child of Charles Leslie, of New Orleans, and a slave woman. He declares "the origin, life and memory of the deceased lady is unjustly attacked. Such a claim seems to us now at this lapse of time a monstrous claim, but if not of time a monstrous claim, to my mind the evidence purporting to support the claim in instance is of the most inadequate and nebulous kind."
